Everglades Crash Kills 43 On Jet

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A Miami to Chicago jet airliner carrying 43 persons crashed and burned Tuesday in south Florida's Everglades wilderness shortly after takeoff in a vicious swirl.

The Coast Guard reported all aboard apparently were killed.

"The fuselage is busted up," said Lt. Cmdr. James Dillon, one of two helicopter pilots who found and explored the wreck. "It's been consumed by fire. Badly burned—gutted."

"There were two fires burning. From the air, they looked like bonfires. I suppose they were in the 4-foot high category."

Tail Broken

"The tail was broken off. Other major components were scattered around."

Dillon's co-pilot, Lt. Cmdr. James Wallace, reported seeing at least one body intact.

Swamp buggies and other special vehicles lunched toward the pitch-dark crash scene—nine miles from the nearest road—where the Northwest Orient Airlines plane, missing 6½ hours, was found by Coast Guard officers in a helicopter—part of a search armada crisscrossing the Southeast.

The Coast Guard officers landed and explored the area with flashlights.

The plane was a Boeing 720B jet capable of carrying 165 passengers.

Aboard were 35 passengers and a crew of 8.

Tried Landing

Dillon and Wallace said it looked as if the airliner pilot had attempted an emergency landing. There was no immediate sign of an explosion.

The pilots said the site was a rocky area in the swamp, about 43 miles west of Miami's International Airport and several miles south of the Tamiami Trail (U.S. 41) linking Miami with Florida's Gulf Coast.

More than 20 airboats mobilized to race toward the wreck through the pools and over the sawgrass of the Everglades. But the Coast Guard said only tracked vehicles could reach the downed plane and air boats—light-draft pontoon craft driven by airplane engines—were not needed.

The area was sealed off to all but rescue craft and those carrying a Civil Aeronautics Board inspection team which sought to determine the cause of the crash.

Air traffic officials at Miami said there was no hint of trouble in pilot-ground conversations just before radio contact with the plane was lost.

Mac Humbles Opposition As Economic Program Okayed

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's government turned back an opposition assault Tuesday night and won parliamentary approval of the emergency economic program he drew up because France blocked Britain's entry into the European Common Market.

At the end of a two-day debate in the House of Commons, Macmillan's Conservatives defeated a Laborite motion of no confidence, 333-227, and went on to win support of his program, 330-227.

100-Vote Margin

The Conservatives have a margin of some 100 votes over their Laborite and Liberal opponents in the House, and had been expected to win the parliamentary tests handily.

But the size of the government's majorities was viewed with surprise because of the opposition's strong attacks and the dissension in Conservative ranks over Macmillan's foreign and domestic policies.

The Laborites charged that the Macmillan government's handling of the Common Market negotiations and subsequent developments is threatening the basis of the British economy and the Atlantic Alliance.

George Brown, a leading confederator for the Labor party leadership vacated by the death of Hugh Gaitskill, assailed the government's action in advising Princess Margaret to cancel a visit to Paris in view of strained British-French relations over the Brussels breakdown.

Brown charged that Macmillan is risking a split in the Atlantic Alliance by "a reckless policy of an insult to a friend."

Laborites cheered wildly as Brown declared Britain needs new men at the helm—"untainted with the duplicity, deception and double-dealing universally regarded as the hallmark of this administration."

James Callaghan, the Labor party's expert on economic affairs, charged that the Brussels breakdown is prompting a flight of British capital to Europe. He demanded that the Macmillan government halt such an exodus of investment funds, imposing exchange controls if necessary.

However, the Macmillan program endorsed in Parliament envisions less, not more, economic controls. Among the actions planned are:

A commonwealth trade ministers' meeting to be held in London in April or May to stimulate business.

British efforts to seek closer trade with the United States, friends in Europe and other nations.

A government drive for world commodity agreements, a cutback of tariffs and freer trade generally.

Indict Pair In Slaying Of Cascarino

BAXLEY, Ga. (AP) — A truck driver and his nephew were charged with murder in separate indictments Tuesday for the fatal stabbing of a Pennsylvania State University student in a roadside argument about car-bumping.

Named in the indictments were Wilton Edwards, 39, and Robert Edwards, 19. Officers had quoted the older man as saying he slashed Nicholas Matthew Cascarino, 19, Bangor, Pa., a sophomore at Penn State, in self-defense in an altercation on U.S. 1 north of Baxley Dec. 29.

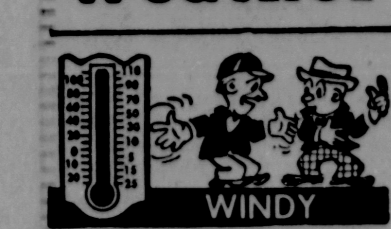

Wilton Edwards, who said he had been drinking, insisted that his nephew, a worker in a carton factory was not involved in the fatal encounter.

Solicitor General Jack Ballenger said he expects to begin the trial Monday. The individual instead of joint indictment indicated that the two might be tried separately.

Cascarino was returning from a holiday trip to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., with Dan Florio, 22, also of Bangor.

Florio told investigators their car was bumped several times by another auto and finally knocked off the pavement. His companion was slashed with a pocket knife, he said, when he approached the other car to investigate.

Gov. Wants 'Quality Schools'

Interpreting The Education Message

Financial Aid Undecided

By FRED WALTERS

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton's speech Tuesday was listed as a message on education.

This is a fair assessment of its contents, for it leaves too many items unfilled to qualify as a full-blown program.

The governor has developed a significant new feature in his quality exemption that probably will relieve much of the objection to the present compulsory school reorganization program.

But he has yet to reach a decision on another—and, perhaps, overriding—problem of education; financial aid.

Lists 7 Projects

The governor lists seven things he would like to do—costing considerable amounts of money, in sum—to improve the education plant.

Generally, they can be summarized as more money for teachers, more money for elementary, secondary and higher education, more money for the children and youth of Pennsylvania who need special training or special aid to achieve the goal of equal educational opportunities for all.

He admits that his budget planners "are straining every resource to find means to do" these things, and that their success "will depend upon the very real and very painful fiscal facts of life in the Commonwealth."

"We are trying," he said. "We shall do our best."

For the moment, those who feel the schools' and colleges' financial situation as an aching need will have to be content with that promise.

Nevertheless, the governor's office has clearly indicated he envisions nothing of the scope requested by the major education organizations.

They ask for at least a 50 per cent increase in the present state subsidy for public schools, or at least $100 million and probably close to $200 million.

Scranton appears to be thinking in much more modest terms, some amount covering the whole range of education from kindergarten through college that can be financed through present resources.

Since he already has projected a $26-$32 million deficit this budget, the prospects would seem dim indeed for any significant aid out of present revenues.

If that is, in fact, what develops when the budget is ready next month, then the governor will consider whether to go into a new tax program to raise money for education.

The third major discussion in his message was reform of the state Council of Education, creating separate councils for higher and basic education and one overall board of education.

bears a greater resemblance to the present act than his speech pretends.

He states that greater emphasis will be placed on the exceptions to the 4,000-pupil minimum population standard than at present.

These exceptions include topography, community (social-economic) characteristics, transportation, existing buildings and potential population growth.

However, this emphasis is to be the subjective judgment of the new council, not a statutory command.

Whatever the statements of its critics, the present council has given more credence to these exceptions than is generally conceded.

Problems Of Successor

Thus, there is a threat that its successor council would lean so far to extend these exceptions that it will make a farce of the law's intent: To provide a more adequate arrangement of school district resources.

Scranton lists a series of items to be provided in his plan that are not included in the existing law. These are such things as transfer of assets and liabilities from the old districts to the new, election of school directors, continuation of supplemental payments, continuation of transportation subsidies.

Gives Message To State Assembly

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton advocated a change in the compulsory school reorganization program Tuesday to head off moves to repeal the program.

He proposed that emphasis be placed "where it should be — on quality education, rather than on abstract numbers."

Want Quality

He unveiled a plan that would make quality an overriding exception to the present law based on population figures.

This was a major portion of his education message delivered personally to the General Assembly.

At the same time, he deferred specific recommendations on increased financial aid to school districts pending analysis of "the very real and very painful fiscal facts of life in the Commonwealth."

These would come, he said, with his budget message in March.

However, the governor's office indicated Scranton already had ruled out the requests of the education organizations for a boost of up to $200 million.

Whether more money for the schools and colleges will require a tax program also is to be left to the budget analysis but Scranton indicated a desire to finance an expanded program out of current taxes.

endorses the principle of compulsory school reorganization: "Mandatory consolidation is necessary to improve the quality of education statewide."

A major portion of his speech also dealt with his plan to reform the administration of education by creating a new state Board of Education with separate councils of basic (elementary and secondary) education and higher education to replace the present state Council of Education.

Significantly, the new board and councils would be independent of the Department of Public Instruction and its superintendent, who is the presiding officer of the existing council.

Sleeping Dogs

The new setup would leave administration to the department and policy making to the board and its councils.

Scranton also touched briefly on the need for community colleges, asking the legislature to enact enabling legislation now while the new Council of Higher Education worked out a master plan for all college and universities in the state, including the community colleges.

The enabling legislation would provide the foundation for the community college plan.

Reaction to the governor's 22-minute speech generally was favorable although Democrats claimed the Republican governor would have more trouble with his own party in implementing its points than with Democrats.

The strongest criticism came from Rep. Harry A. Kramer, Pittsburgh Democrat, who described it—in an emotional speech to the House within an hour after the joint session disbanded—as a step backward.

GOP Lashes At Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans disputed Tuesday Democratic contentions that they are playing politics with Cuba. But one of them launched fresh attacks on President Kennedy's foreign policy actions.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., suggested that perhaps Cuba had become a "bone in the throat" of Kennedy—an expression Soviet Premier Khrushchev once used to describe his own view of Berlin.

Criticism Policy

Javits, in a speech prepared for a New York county Republican rally, said "although the administration and its critics agree there are substantial Soviet troops and equipment in Cuba, a U.S. policy on Cuba appears to be unformed." Then he continued:

"It is no wonder that in Washington today they are saying that Cuba is the 'bone in the throat' of President Kennedy. Those of us who are devoted to a bipartisan policy cannot be pleased by this unhappy state of affairs."

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., joined Javits in maintaining that, despite their criticisms, Republicans want to maintain a bipartisan foreign policy.

One of the chief critics of the administration's handling of the Cuba problem, Keating said in an interview "for one am determined to keep it out of politics."

Meanwhile, Keating said in Albany, N.Y., the Kennedy Administration still has not given the American people the full facts on the "Soviet buildup" in Cuba.

The senator told a news conference the President should do so immediately and should make periodic reports to the people to keep them abreast of developments.

Keating was in the New York capital to attend a luncheon.

Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., who has challenged many of Keating's statements, denied in a separate interview that he did so because of the possibility he may seek to oppose the Republican senator in the 1964 election.

Find Polaris Problems

ROME (AP)—The United States was reported Tuesday night encountering political problems in finding a Polaris submarine base in Spain or Italy.

But an American source said Washington is going ahead with plans to station three Polaris subs in the Mediterranean starting April 1.

The source said the three will run long-distance patrols out of Holy Loch, Scotland, until a Mediterranean base is found.

Premier Amintore Fanfani's left-leaning government faces a general election in late April or early May and is eager to go to the voters with an Italy free of American missile bases. Jupiter land-based missiles are being withdrawn from Italy.

Franco Demands

Gen. Francisco Franco of Spain is said to be demanding admission to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization as his price for permitting use of the base at Rota, Spain.

U.S. Deputy Defense Secretary Roswell Gilpatric discussed the Polaris problem with Fanfani and Defense Minister Giulio Andreotti. The source said Gilpatric told the Italians that Washington wanted to maintain April 1 as a target date for closing Jupiter missile bases in Italy and Turkey, with the Polaris subs taking the place of the Jupiters in NATO defense lines.

Criticism Tactics

"As a member of the House Armed Services Committee, I got burned up at him for unfair and irresponsible attacks," Stratton said.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and his assistant, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, have called for an end to what Mansfield said were "irresponsible public utterances . . . playing dangerously with the fires of public emotion."

Record Offers Reproductions

Collect Documents Of American Past

IN THE BELIEF that America's historic documents represent the sacrifices of our forefathers and the freedoms they protected, The Daily Record is making available to the public authentic copies of them. Each family has a patriotic obligation to educate each new generation with the richness of its traditions.

When one reads the documents of history—the Declaration of Independence, the Star-Spangled Banner, Lincoln's Gettysburg address, the Bill of Rights, and all the rest—something wonderful happens. We feel the nearness of the early Americans and the privations of their struggle for freedom. History becomes an adventure in which we take our place in the heritage which is ours.

The need for understanding the times and troubles of the early Americans becomes more important to us each day if we are to lose nothing of our rich traditions.

With these things in mind, The Daily Record will make available to all the basic documents of American history, printed on antiqued parchment that looks and actually feels like the original documents. The first of these, the Declaration of Independence, is now available. Each week an additional document will be offered.

Complete details of this service to our readers will be found in an announcement on Page 9 of this issue.

At Geneva Conference

U.S., Reds Clash On Arms

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union and the United States collided Tuesday at the reopening of the 17-nation disarmament conference. The Soviets submerged a message of cautious optimism from President Kennedy by proposing the United States liquidate its nuclear deterrent force on foreign lands and seas.

U.S. and British sources denounced the Soviet proposal as a political maneuver to force the West on the defensive.

Shortly after the U.S. negotiator, William C. Foster, read Kennedy's message, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov presented a draft East-West treaty that would leave the United States with only U.S.-based intercontinental ballistic missiles as a chief nuclear deterrent.

The Soviet proposal would require the United States to abandon its Polaris submarine and rocket buses abroad and to bring home aircraft carriers and planes capable of delivering nuclear bombs.

Kuznetsov turned the tables on the disarmament talks which had been devoted almost exclusively to a nuclear test ban treaty as a step toward disarmament.

Both the United States and Britain went into the conference—which had been in recess since Dec. 20—with the expressions of hope some progress could be made toward a test ban treaty.

Kennedy's message called on the participating countries to seek a safeguarded treaty that would promote confidence and trust among nations.

He said complete agreement still was not in easy reach but he added the "prospects seemed more encouraging than before because of the acceptance of the Soviet Union on the principle of on-site inspections."

Kuznetsov promptly threw cold water on that by refusing to modify the Kremlin position of two or three on-site inspections a year on Soviet soil. He implied the inspections could only be carried out if the inspectors are officially invited.

The West wants eight or 10 inspections each year.

But the British negotiator, Minister of State Joseph B. Golder, told a news conference before the session that the West might be willing to reduce the number of inspections if the Russians agree to increase the number and size of automatic detection devices—black boxes—they would allow on their territory. There was no indication this idea and its official position still was for eight or 10 inspections.

Kennedy also called on the conference to seek measures to reduce the risk of "war by accident, miscalculation or failure of communications." He said both sides had expressed interest in such measures.

"It is clear that the conference has before it new opportunities for serious negotiation," the President said. "And if agreements here are coupled with further measures designed to contain the nuclear threat, then the more ambitious task of developing a broad range program for general and complete disarmament would surely proceed in an atmosphere of greater international confidence, stability and security."

But Kuznetsov stepped forth with a blanket call for an end to the arms race, bringing up the October Cuban crisis during which, he said "the world felt so closely the flaming wind of thermonuclear war."

Iraq Wiping Out More Reds

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—East European Communists who swarmed into Iraq during Abdel Karim Kassam's dictatorship are reported clamoring to get out now under harassment by the revolutionary council that is killing homegrown Reds.

Whatever the implications, Red China on Tuesday joined more than a dozen other powers in recognizing the new regime. The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union extended recognition Monday.

Gunter Stocker, a West German businessman, said the Iraqis have begun cracking down on Eastern Communists who entered along with the millions of dollars worth of arms that Kassam bought from the Soviet Union.

Newly arrived by a Lebanese airliner from Baghdad, he said: "They are treating the Westerners excellently, but for people from the Eastern European Communist countries it is a very different thing."

"I was told that so far three East German military advisers attached to the army under Kassam have been arrested. The East Europeans are trying to get out of the country."

There are hundreds of East Europeans in Iraq, including arms specialists, technicians and businessmen.

Stocker reported that, in the new regime's continuing effort to wipe out domestic opposition, "four more Communists were executed this morning."

A fellow German, Kurt Gartner of the Luftwaffe Airline, told newsmen Iraqi troops pulled down hundreds of portraits of the executed Kassam and also ordered withdrawal of photographs of President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic and Iraq's new president, Abdel Salam Aref, had been put up since the revolt Friday.

Avoid Cult

"They seem to be trying to avoid the personality cult that Kassam created," Gartner said.

Informed political sources here said there are increasing signs that Aref, an admirer of Nasser who was named chief executive by rebel officers, is a relatively powerless figurehead.

Newsmen in the Iranian oil port of Abadan were told by an Iraqi river pilot that Aref sought support of Iraqi royalists Monday by hoisting a flag at half staff over the grave of King Faisal, the young ruler slain in the military coup of July 14, 1958.

Aref was an army colonel then and it was his troops who seized Baghdad, opening the way for Kassam's rise to power. The two fell out later about Aref's advocacy of Nasser's Arab unity views.

Motorist Cracks Up, Hospitalized

DAVID BELOFF, 57, of 520 Winding Way, Marion, Pa., was reported in guarded condition last night at Monroe County General Hospital where he is being treated for an apparent heart attack.

State Police of the local barracks said Beloff apparently became ill while driving along Route 402, about a mile east of the interchange with Interstate Route 80.

His car left the highway and struck a tree. Damage was estimated at $1,800.

Harmon Is Named State's Nurseryman Of The Year

RUSSELL E. HARMON, vice president of LaBar's Rhododendron Nursery, has been named Pennsylvania Nurseryman of the Year, and was honored at the annual dinner meeting of the Pennsylvania Nursery Assn. held on his 66th birthday at the Bellevue Stratford Hotel in Philadelphia.

"A grand big man in every department," read the telegram of congratulations from Frank S. LaBar, president of LaBar's Rhododendron Nursery.

"I believe he is the biggest Nurseryman-of-the-Year we have ever honored," said Owen B. Schmidt, of F. D. Moon Inc., Narberth who made the presentation. However, it was not his physical size, 6 feet 4 inches and 220 pounds, but the size of his accomplishments which won him the award:

"To honor you for your outstanding service in the field of horticulture and for your many years of untiring effort to elevate the standards of the Nurserymen of Pennsylvania, and for your respect and consideration of humanity."

45-Year Veteran
Harmon, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Emory Harmon, of Stroudsburg, was graduated from Stroudsburg High School in 1918 and has been employed by LaBar's Rhododendron Nursery for 45 years. He has been vice president as well as general manager and superintendent of all the field work in both the Stroudsburg and North Carolina Nurseries.

He is responsible for LaBar's White Catawbiense Rhododendron, a pure white clone originating in the wild, and also for the Russell Harmon Rhododendron, a cross of the Rhododendron Maximum and Catawbiense, selected and perfected at LaBar's.

His latest contribution in the field of horticulture is the Azalea Vaseyi "White Find," a pure white type of native Vaseyi which he originated in Stroudsburg.

He has also been a pioneer in the selection, collection and use of native trees and shrubs and has contributed in adapting such plants to cultivation.

Many of his exhibits have won Gold Medal Awards at the Cleveland and Philadelphia Flower Shows.

Harmon was president of the Pennsylvania Nurserymen's Assn. in 1932 and 1933, and served as secretary of the former Eastern Nurserymen's Assn. He has given many hours of time in lectures and talks for short courses in colleges and schools, including Pennsylvania State University, Rutgers University, the University of Delaware and Long Island Agricultural School as well as many Garden Clubs. His lectures include "Native Shrubs and Trees," "Ericaceous Plants" and "Berried Shrubs" among others.

Active in Civic Affairs

Harmon has also been active in civic affairs in Monroe County where he has been a chairman of the Shade Tree Commission in Stroudsburg for 25 years. He is a member of the board of the Monroe County Chapter of the American Red Cross and served for 20 years as chairman of its Disaster committee. He is past president of the local Kiwanis Club, served as superintendent of the church school of the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church for seven years, and as a member of the board of trustees and is an elder in the church.

His major hobby is fishing. Married to the former Elizabeth Sprickman of Erie, they have two children: Jack, a graduate of Pennsylvania State College in agriculture and biochemistry, who is a lieutenant with the U. S. Navy and captain of the USS Allegheny doing research with the Hudson Laboratories Scientists; and a daughter, Susan, the wife of Lt. Commander Frank Kovarik, serving on the new Missile Frigate, USS Leahy. They have one grandchild, Jane Louise Kovarik, two years old.

er space" nature. One person commented: "About as 'far out' as you can get," regarding "Explorations."

In the same manner that contemporary artists could (but do not) paint in the style of the old masters, serious contemporary composers do not compose in the musical style of Beethoven or Brahms.

As intelligent citizens of a rapidly changing space age, it is well for us to become exposed to the contemporary idiom in music and the other arts. However, the worth and artistic value of a modern composition cannot be judged after one hearing, but only after much study and repeated hearings.

The fact that the group was recalled for three encores speaks well for the concert's success, and for the musicianship of the performers. We think it was most worthwhile for the average listener, psychologically conditioned to the consonance-dissonance ratios, formal structure, and techniques of eighteenth and nineteenth-century composers to have the experience of hearing works by contemporaries.

One member of the audience commented: "Really different, in many ways interesting, but not what I'd choose for a steady diet." However, it should be noted that eating habits are subject to change, and variety still does add spice to diet—and to life.

Area Names Worth Money

THE names of Monroe County residents are worth money. Business firms are willing and anxious to pay from one cent to as much as one dollar apiece for them on mailing lists.

The price depends on the selectivity of the particular list and on the comparative value of those on it as prospective purchasers of goods and services.

Easy-to-get listings, such as doctors, lawyers and dentists, can be had for less than two cents a name.

On the other hand, if what is wanted is the names of persons in a community who have traveled to Europe within the last five years, that would cost much more. Most residents of Monroe County appear on one or more lists that are available for a price from companies that are in the business of compiling them.

The unsolicited mail these people receive from insurance companies, from charitable organizations, from magazine publishers and from others indicates the number of lists that carry their names.

Way Used

This is the way they are used. Suppose an investment company wants to pinpoint its approach to Monroe County families with incomes over $10,000.

If it were to go to a listing concern that has all the local families in this income bracket, it would be getting 1,020 names.

Or, it may be a fund-raising organization that is aiming particularly at college graduates. It would find that a full list of such people, locally, would provide 1,446 names.

If someone wanted to approach local men who are in the pre-retirement ages of 60 to 64 to interest them in travel, in hobbies or in franchises, he would find that there are 888 such prospects in Monroe County.

Others might be interested in new families in town, in families with more than one car or in parents of new babies. All are on lists that are for sale.

Several hundred farms are in the listing business in the United States. They cull the names and addresses that are their stock in trade from newspapers, from public records and from many other sources.

Monroe Big Game Hunting: 1801 Deer And 18 Bears

THE big game harvest in Monroe County for 1962 shows 1,801 deer and 18 bear killed, according to statistics released by the State Game Commission recently.

Carbon County took 1,389 deer and two bear, while Luzerne had 1,924 deer and seven bear taken. In other northeast district kills, Pike County had 1,730 deer and 68 bear killed during the hunting seasons.

Wayne County took the most northeast deer with 2,023 and killed four bear. In the Southeast district, Northampton County took 276 deer and no bear.

In Monroe, 1,098 antlered deer were killed, and 703 does fell to hunters.

For the entire state, 72,913 deer and 554 bear were killed.

Portland Churches Elect Aides

PORTLAND — Elders and trustees were elected at the congregational meeting of Portland and Mt. Bethel Presbyterian Churches held in the local church recently.

Elders are Bertrand G. Bonney, Jesse Encke, Sr., Hiram Delp and Morris Hauser. Trustees are William Young, Gary Wagner, Clifford Sebring and Melvin Honey.

Since the Mt. Bethel Church did not previously have a board of deacons, those elected from the two churches were Rhoda Cramer, Thomas Nangle, Minnie Felker, Stanley Werkheiser, Hazel Godschalk, Douglas Predmore, Paul Godschalk and Virginia Lovrie.

Audience Warmly Enthusiastic

American Jazz Ensemble, Eaton, Worthy Vehicles'

By GEORGE MEYER

A WARMLY enthusiastic welcome by a capacity audience was given the American Jazz Ensemble and John Eaton, pianist, composer and East Stroudsburg native, in the third concert of the current Pocono Community Concert Association series on Monday night in the auditorium of East Stroudsburg State College. It is to be regretted that many interested in attending the performance could not be admitted because previously purchased memberships exhausted the number of seats available.

The program was constructed on the premise that jazz audiences are more receptive to contemporary serious composers (whose works, we will certainly agree, need more frequent programming). The concert began with compositions by Schumann and Debussy for clarinet and piano, two selections for piano from Bartok's Mikrokosmos, and Three Pieces for Clarinet Solo by Stravinsky.

We are not certain that the audience was a typical "jazz audience," and however interesting such a premise may be, Schumann is not contemporary, and the other serious twentieth-century composers represented have long been accepted by the musical world's most reserved critics.

Other less well-known composers might have been included in the never-ending struggle for acceptance of the contemporary idiom. But at any rate, these difficult modernistic works certainly proved to be worthy vehicles for the pianistic abilities of John Eaton and virtuoso clarinetist William Smith.

A composition by Eaton, "Concert Piece for Clarinet and Piano," thoughtfully dedicated by the composer to his former piano teacher, Mrs. John Gish, who was present for the performance, ended the serious part of the program. "Concert Piece" employed some rather shocking innovations of composition and performance; shocking, that is to say, to those unfamiliar with the experimental tendencies of the contemporary composer, when Eaton, to some people's great surprise, reached inside the Steinway for pizzicati effects and glissandi on the strings, and William Smith produced unique sounds on the clarinet described as "gurgles" by one concertgoer.

Imaginative

The second half of the concert featured jazz improvisations on familiar popular standards, such as "So In Love" and "Too Darn Hot" by Cole Porter, and George Gershwin's "Summertime" and was received with more enjoyment and understanding by the majority of the audience. Erich Peter on bass and Jimmy Pratt on drums joined the ensemble for these numbers, thus completing the quartet of able musicians.

The improvisations were imaginative and should complete familiarity with progressive treatment.

Worthy of particular note in this part of the program was an experimental composition by young American composer Bill Smith entitled "Explorations," featuring jazz improvisations in solo and by the group against a pre-recorded tape background of most unusual sounds of an "out-

No Injuries In Truck, Car Mishap

MT. POCONO — No one was injured in the collision of a State Highways Dept. truck and a car on Route 191 at 7:15 a.m. yesterday.

State Police here said the truck, operated by Charles Bennett, 29, Mountaintown, was plowing the highway, when it and a car driven by Jean Nedwith, 56, also of Mountaintown, collided.

Troopers said both vehicles apparently skidded on the snow-covered highway.

Damage was estimated at $300 to the car and $150 to the truck.

Triple Killer To Get Hearing

BEAVER, Pa. (AP) — A man who wants to be released from Farview Hospital nearly 24 years after a triple murder will receive a hearing in Beaver County Court on his request.

Paul Cook will be returned to the county under an order issued Thursday by Judge Morgan H. Sonn. He still is subject to trial for the slaying of his parents and sister in South Beaver Twp. in 1939.

Sheriff John Hinerman of Beaver County said, he did not know when Cook would be returned. A sanity commission ruled Cook insane at the time of the murders, and he was committed to Farview without being brought to trial.

If it doesn't have a frame, how come it's so strong?

The Volkswagen Truck isn't bolted together like most conventional trucks. It's welded.

In fact, the VW's body goes through a revolving welding gizmo that turns it into one hunk of steel. (13,000 welds per truck; you'd think they were building a ship.)

How strong does this make the VW truck? Strong enough to carry practically a ton of stuff. (1,830 pounds, to be exact.)

The amazing thing is that the VW weighs only about half as much as a conventional, light-duty truck. Yet, it's strong enough to hold almost twice as much.

Of course, the fact that the VW doesn't have a radiator or a drive shaft or a long front hood, helps keep the weight down and the economy up.

The nice thing is that you can drive this strongbox and still put your profits in the bank.

Snow Is Poconos' Chief Enemy During February

By JEFF COX
Daily Record Reporter

THIS, as Swinburne said, is the season of snow.

Back in November and even December, residents of the area thrilled to the first snowfalls.

Through early January they forced a smile at the sparkling blizzards — but now?

February is the month when snow is the enemy. Ask the men of the highway department.

When yesterday's snowfall was coming down heaviest, the State Highway Department started round-the-clock plowing and snow removal work. Besides the 48 pieces of equipment that were thrown into the battle, 110 men were working.

Thirty-seven trucks, five graders, five loaders, and one shovel were sent to scrape Monroe County roads.

The snow began early Tuesday morning. When county residents awoke, six inches were already on the ground. During the middle of the day, the snow changed to rain.

In the early afternoon it changed back to snow. With another temperature fluctuation, the skies poured freezing rain on the county.

And to top off the whole mess, the precipitation turned back into heavy wet snow late in the afternoon, piling a few more inches on the area.

After lunchtime yesterday, area schools made the decision to close. Stroud Union closed at noon, and the East Stroudsburg Area Joint released its students at 1 p.m.

Obviously, there is a class of persons in the area that do not consider snow the enemy — the students.

The Pleasant Valley Jointure remained open during the day and school buses with huge sets of chains carried the students home.

Roads in the county were again made hazardous. Drivers inched cautiously along major and secondary arteries.

Beaten into submission by snowfall after snowfall this winter, residents hopefully turned to the weather forecast for relief from winter miseries.

"We predict eight inches of snow or more," the Weather Bureau at Avoca said, "with snow diminishing to snow flurries tonight." An overnight low of about 15 to 20 degrees was predicted.

The knockout was delivered with a prediction of snow flurries today with a high of 18 to 22 degrees.

West End Men Post Bond On Game Charges

GILBERT — Six West End men were taken before Justice of the Peace Nathaniel Gruver here yesterday and charged with possessing deer out of season and selling deer. The State Game Commission brought the charges.

The six are William E. Stanley E., Harry D., and Henry F. Burger, James Kresge, and Roy E. Dorshimer. The Burgers live at Kunkletown RD 2 and Dorshimer and Kresge are from Gilbert.

All but Dorshimer posted bond and will appear before Gruver for a hearing on Monday. Dorshimer is in Florida.

William and Harry Burger posted bond of $1200, Stanley Burger posted bond of $2400, Henry Burger posted bond of $400, and Kresge posted $1000 bond.

Bangor Board Airs Road Hazards

BANGOR — A discussion on the road hazards present on the Bangor-East Bangor highway absorbed much of the time of the members of the Bangor Board of Education at a Monday night meeting in the district administrative offices. Clair Peiffley was in charge.

In discussing the problem that has been brought to the fore by recent efforts to construct a new road that would miss the open quarry holes along the road, Mrs. Charlotte Hough, board member remarked that "this problem has been reviewed in meetings of the body for the last eight years." It was noted by the board membership that successive boards have tried unsuccessfully to enlist the aid of the proper persons to correct the problem.

Question was raised at the meeting relative to the matter of the efforts of the Bangor Board to secure release from quarry property owners. Kenneth Ace, board member indicated that he would contact Edmund Turzco, solicitor for the board, and determine the present status of the effort to secure the desired releases.

In final action of the matter and in an effort to enlist support the Bangor board instructed Secretary Merle Mabius to contact the Northampton County Commissioners and state representatives to determine what course of action would be necessary. Approval was also given to an effort to have studies made by the proper agencies of government to determine the feasibility of filling the quarries and improving the present East Bangor-Bangor road or the proposed construction of a new road that is currently being studied.

The board approved the recommendation that efforts be made through the Bangor Area Joint School Board to have full time nurses on duty in both the senior and the junior high school buildings. It was pointed out that the student population at both of these schools either is approaching the 600 pupil mark or is currently exceeding it.

Tax exonerations were granted to two persons and bills totalling $35,625.90 were approved for payment. The balance in the general funds of the district was listed as $55,353.88.

It was noted that $19,335.30 has not been collected to date on real estate taxes of a total $188,661.73. Total receipts for local real estate have been $169,326.43. Of per capita tax $3,370.00 still is uncollected on a duplicate of $17,866.55. Total returns on per capita tax to date are listed as $14,496.55.

Pocono Pines Man Pleads Guilty To Two Charges

DANIEL Mulligan, Sr., Pocono Pines, pleaded guilty to two charges and no contest — no contest — to another yesterday in Monroe County Court and was fined a total of $200 and costs by Judge James Rutherford of Wayne County, specially presiding here.

Mulligan also received suspended 60-day jail sentences on two of the counts.

Mulligan was fined $100 and costs on his guilty plea to sales of liquor or beer to minors and $50 and costs on a guilty plea to a charge of permitting minors to frequent. The suspended jail sentences were imposed on these counts.

3rd Count Quashed

A third count charging him with Sunday sales at the hotel he operates was quashed.

Mulligan pleaded no defense to a charge of assault and battery brought by Forrest L. Graves, 1004 Main St., Stroudsburg, as the result of a political argument prior to the last general election and was fined $50 and costs.

Marvin L. Hartranft, 22, Danielsville, charged with a Kresgeville burglary in 1959, pleaded guilty and was placed on probation for two years. Judge Rutherford said he noted from the record a readjustment in Hartranft's attitude during his last term at Camp Hill and also said the wardens of Schuylkill County Prison indicated he thought Hartranft has learned his lesson. Hartranft has been in prison since 1959 in Carbon, Lehigh, Schuylkill and Bucks County.

Placed On Probation

Donald C. Shook, 41, of 432 Birch St., East Stroudsburg, who previously pleaded guilty to a charge of pointing a deadly weapon, was placed on probation for one year and ordered to pay costs of the case.

Donald Thek, 19, of 7 Day St., East Stroudsburg, pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery. Sentencing was deferred at the request of Dist. Atty. James R. Marsh. Thek also faces burglary charges here along with three companions.

Jack Victor Gill, Doylestown, who pleaded guilty to driving while his license was suspended, was fined $100 and costs and directed to make payment within 60 days.

Stephen A. Kukel, 10 S. Seventh St., Stroudsburg, pleaded guilty to sale of liquor or beer to a minor and was fined $100 and costs.

Trio Held In Local Burglaries

THREE MEN were arrested yesterday and pleaded guilty to burglary of the Happy Hour Tavern in Stroudsburg during December.

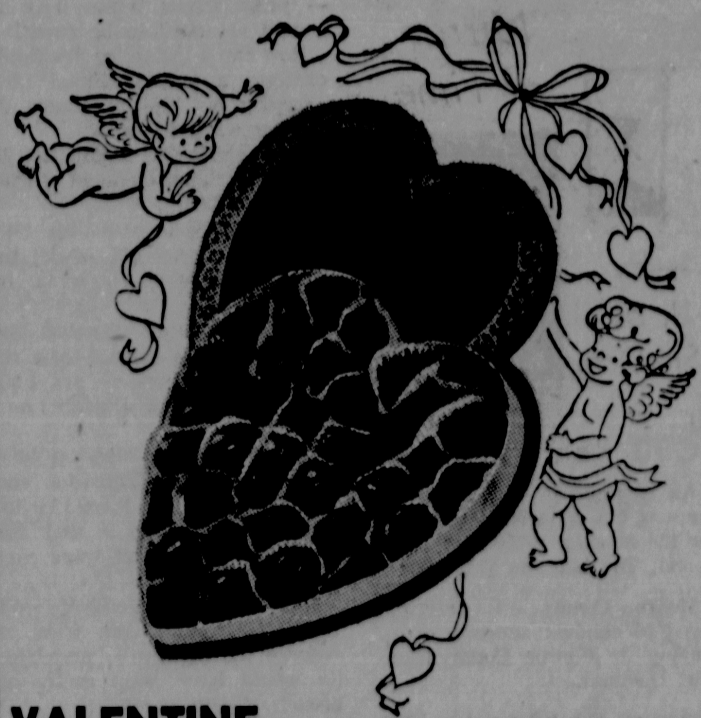

Stroudsburg police brought John W. Englert, of 244 South Courtland St., East Stroudsburg; Bernard C. Counterman, East Stroudsburg RD 1 and Richard P. Ludwig, Belvidere RD 1, before Justice of the Peace John C. F. Foelker.

Englert and Counterman pleaded guilty to two counts of burglary. Ludwig pleaded guilty to one count of burglary.

The Happy Hour Tavern was burglarized on Dec. 9 and Dec. 30, 1962, and the burglars made off with whiskey, cigarettes, and a case of beer.

7 School Children Escape Injury As Bus Leaves Road

BANGOR — Seven school children escaped apparently without serious injury when the school bus in which they were riding skidded off Franklin Hill Rd. in Washington Township and landed in a gully about 9:10 a.m. yesterday.

Raymond Schoch, 68, Ackermanville, the driver of the bus, suffered a wrenched back and is being treated by a local physician.

Schoch, who has been driving school bus since 1937, said the vehicle began to skid about 50 feet from the point where it left the road.

"I tried hard to keep it from going over by turning the steering wheel hard to the right, but it didn't do any good," Schoch said. He said the accident occurred about an hour before State Highways Dept. crews began to clear roads in the area.

Schoch said if the accident had happened 10 minutes earlier, 50 children would have been involved. He had just dropped 43 elementary pupils at the Washington Township School.

Charles Mack, who lives about 200 yards from the accident scene, helped the children and driver to safety and took the children home in his car.

Thrown Around

Schoch went from the accident to the garage operated by Norman Smith, who contracts five buses with the Washington Township School.

School authorities said the children aboard were thrown around, but none apparently were hurt. Elementary pupils aboard were Carlene and Gary Yeiser, Lisa Smith, Bert Godshalk and Rosalene Confalone. High school students on the bus were Jane and Carol Fritzschke.

The bus, when it landed in the gully, was prevented from continuing into a field 20 feet below when it hung on the bank at a 45-degree angle with the back wheels in mid-air over a ditch.

The Bangor Area Joint Schools, of which Washington Township is a part, were the only ones in session yesterday. All other public and parochial schools in the State Belt area were closed because of weather and Bangor dismissed its classes at 1:30 p.m. to permit pupils to reach their homes.

W. T. Roberts' Rites Conducted

FUNERAL services for William T. Roberts, 69, of Readers, were held yesterday at 2 p.m. in the Gantzhorn Funeral Home, Tannersville, with the Rev. Albert Sauer officiating.

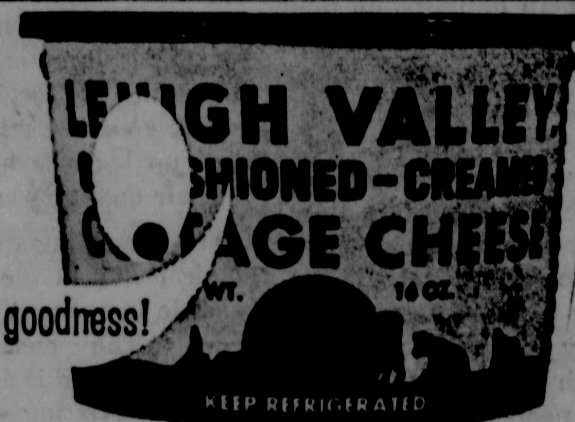

Burial was in the Readers Methodist Cemetery. Pallbearers were Edward Woodling, Herbert Woodling, Webster Woodling, Elmer Woodling, Russel Pritchard and Robert Warner. Foster Gould and George Freeman represented the Veterans Memorial Committee by folding the flag and presenting it.

Roseto Okays Purchase Of New Truck

ROSETO — The Roseto Borough Council, at an adjourned meeting Monday night, awarded a contract for a new truck to the Blue Valley Truck Sales & Service, Inc., at its bid of $4,345.44.

Matthew Giovannini, secretary was instructed to order new voucher books for use in the purchase of gas and oil and other necessary equipment and material.

The bicycle plates were reported received and will be put in effect on March 1.

It was decided to meet with the Bangor Borough Council to discuss sewerage on Friday night in the Bangor council room.

Residents were warned that the owner of any parked car on a driveway or sidewalk obstructing the path of a pedestrian will be subject to a fine. The council decided to send letters to residents who have ramps in their sidewalks that extend out in the street informing them they are a nuisance and a hazard to pedestrians and should be corrected.

PV Junior Accepted For Test

ROBERT Davenport, son of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Davenport of Kunkletown, RD 2, a junior at Pleasant Valley High School, was one of 199 boys accepted to take a preliminary test for a student fellowship.

The fellowship is "The Student Research Fellowship Program for High School Students," sponsored by the General Electric Foundation at Union College, Schenectady, N. Y.

The program gives boys a chance to do research programs in the summer months. The projects include research, seminars, lectures, field trips, and a recreation program.

It is open to any boy in his junior year in high school. Besides maintaining an "A" average in all math or sciences, he must have had three years of high school math and one year of either chemistry or physics and have been active in research science projects.

Stroudsburg Woman Injured

BANGOR — Mrs. Harold Storms of Stroudsburg R.D. 4 was injured Sunday night when the car driven by her husband struck a water manhole at the corner of Market and First Streets, Bangor.

Mrs. Storms was treated in the office of Dr. J. Earle Brackbill, Bangor. The car was heavily damaged and was towed away.

Police Officer Walter Heard investigated.

Our National Heritage

We need nothing more than to study the front page of our daily newspaper, with headlines underscoring the sad state of world affairs, to realize that this is a time for personal evaluation and thoughtful consideration of our national heritage.

The obligations of American citizenship grows with each succeeding generation. The responsibility calls for constant reeducation. When we find our capacity for patriotism becoming dulled, we need a renewed study of the principles on which our nation was founded in order to withstand the artful propaganda which the enemies of democracy set out to trap the unwary.

The vital force of our national inheritance is ingrained in every word of the Declaration of Independence. It should be reread thoughtfully to the strains of martial music, for this is the spirit in which it was written.

This first document of our American heritage was followed by others similarly stirring and soul-searching — the Gettysburg address, the Bill of Rights, the immortal words of the Star-Spangled Banner, and many others.

For these reasons, The Daily Record is launching a campaign to have reproductions of these immortal documents in every home, club, school, veterans' post, or any walls inside of which the ideals of our country are cherished.

These authentic and beautiful reproductions will be offered to our readers beginning today, and followed with a different one each week. The details on how to obtain them will be found on Page 9.

The Daily Record urges that parents, teachers and others in official capacities make these documents available so that every American citizen in our area can study them in detail. They will be a reminder of the principles of our heritage to some, but they certainly will be the source of renewed inspiration for all.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Missing The Targets

Premier Nikita Khrushchev's recent visit to some industrial plants in the Soviet Zone of Germany came on the heels of the revelation that the planned economic targets there for 1962 were not achieved. And from all indications the living standard of the population there will hardly go forward this year. That, in a nutshell, is the main conclusion from the 1962 economic development and the economic plan of the zone for 1963.

Under the recently approved 1963 plan, the Communists want to "use the major portion of the growth of national income for the expansion of the means of production." This means that the population will have to put up with "restrictions on various sectors also during 1963." The only unusual feature of this economic policy is the cynical frankness with which new hardships are being placed on the people since the Soviet Zone was cut off by walls and barbed wire.

The 1962 economy of the zone was marked by falling growth rates of production and an absolute decrease of consumption, compared with last year. In important sectors of the economy actual achievements remained behind quotas set in the regimes' economic plan. Serious shortcomings occurred mainly in heavy engineering, metal processing, power and building material industries. Gross production of industry failed to reach the planned goal and what is even more serious, neither its range nor its quality or technical standards were up to the demands of the national economy.

The red figures on the 1962 balance sheet of the zone's economy explain why the export plan could not be fulfilled in important lines of goods that were to be sold to obtain the money needed for imports of raw materials. There also were difficulties in foreign trade. Unsatisfactory export goods worth 145 million marks piled up because nobody wanted them or their quality was poor.

The overriding aim of Communist economic policy in the zone is the biggest possible increase of the productivity of labor. The method used to try to achieve this end is not so much modernization of existing means of production as stepped-up exploitation of workers. The Communists say that "hard work" must come first in order to reach a higher standard of living. But they have this argument the past 15 years which does not make it any more convincing.

It is doubtful that Khrushchev was pleased with what he saw in his visit to East Germany despite the broad smile for the cameras.

A Nation Of Joiners

The problem of knowing what to join and what to refrain from joining must be bothering more than one citizen these days.

There's Captain Eddie Rickenbacker's recently formed Committee for the Preservation of the Monroe Doctrine, for example. I've had several appeals to become a member of this committee, and on a couple of occasions I've almost been ready to sign on the dotted line and contribute a check.

I agree with Captain Eddie that the Russians should be driven out of Cuba and that the Castro government must go. But then I remember that there is supposed to be an Organization of American States, which, as I have been told, is the duly constituted Western Hemisphere agent for keeping European and Asiatic powers from interfering in New World internal affairs.

Plainly, if there is any way of acting effectively against Castro, the OAS should be the organization to do it.

Of course, if we can't get action from the Americas as a whole, the United States should act unilaterally on its own behalf. In case the OAS just won't oust the Soviet infiltrators from Cuba, the Kennedy Administration should fall back on the old Monroe Doctrine and inform Castro that we intend to get rid of him no matter what Brazil, or Mexico, or British Guiana may have to say.

However, if we are forced to revive a unilateral doctrine promulgated back in the days of John Quincy Adams, who was President Monroe's Secretary of State, it will be a signal that our modern Latin American diplomacy has reached a stage of complete bankruptcy.

Pessimistic in this matter though I tend to be, I would like to think the Kennedy government can yet manage to enlist the governments of Latin America in a joint crusade to rescue Cuba from Communism.

Since I still possess a shred of hope that the OAS can be made effective, I can't join Captain Eddie Rickenbacker's Committee for the Preservation of the Monroe Doctrine — just yet. Maybe next week I'll feel differently about it.

Then there's the problem of my friend Norman Lombard's new organization, the United Senior Citizens (U.S.C.), Inc. This group was set up to enlist older people in the effort to keep the federal government from making further encroachments on spheres that should be left to individual initiative, voluntary association, or local State and municipal action.

One of the more immediate objectives of United Senior Citizens is to prevent the passage of a bill that would finance medical care of the elderly by adding the costs to the already burdensome social security "wage tax."

Inasmuch as I believe in the objectives of Mr. Lombard's organization, I agreed to become a member of its advisory council. But every time I look at the name of the group I am supposed to be advising, I gag.

This idea that Americans must be shuffled into age groups and labeled "senior" or "junior" that is obnoxious. "United Senior Citizens" indeed! I remember the day when people were people, with freedoms and duties that were theirs from voting age on. When I have become an old man I want to be called an old man, not a "senior citizen."

The very phrase smacks of an insufferable stiffness. It invites patronizing on the part of the young. It also encourages the idea that when a person has reached the age of 65, it is time for him to be put on the shelf, even though he may have as long a run ahead of him as Bernard Baruch.

So please, Mr. Lombard, change the name of your organization before I take second thought and resign from its board of advisers.

It might be argued that my reaction to the tag, "senior citizen," is idiosyncratic. But it really isn't. Several years ago the phrase was sprung on that stalwart individualist, William Grimes, when he was still in working harness as editor of the Wall Street Journal.

Old Bill Grimes flashed a look that would have melted a brass monkey. "If anyone ever calls me a 'senior citizen,'" he said, "he better watch out. For I warn him, I'll hit him over the head with my crutch."

Bill Grimes has since retired, to live in Delray Beach, Fla., not far from Norman Lombard's home in Fort Lauderdale. Although Bill should be a logical candidate for Mr. Lombard's organization,

'Don't Forget—We're In This Together!'

The Pennsylvania Story

Opposition To Reorganization

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — Pennsylvania's State Senate was the scene the other day of a somewhat amazing spectacle, one that certainly must rank extremely high in the realm of — sheer stupidity.

Under debate at the time (as might be expected) was the ever-controversial subject of school district reorganization. Debate over a proposed amendment to the now-in-process moratorium bill that would hold the school district reorganization program in abeyance for a year.

Not at issue at the moment insofar as this particular column is concerned are the pros and cons of school district reorganization (Act 561), or of the legislative proposals now bounding through the Legislature that would kill the act, modify the act or declare a moratorium on carrying out provisions of the act.

The school issue in this case merely provided the "vehicle" for the incident that developed. However this background seemingly is essential:

One of the sponsors of the school district reorganization act when it was whipped through the Legislature at the behest of the Democratic Lawrence Administration in 1961 was York County Senator Harry E. Seyler (an administration Democrat).

Senator Seyler (also a schoolman in private life) was up for re-election last fall. His opponent was one Robert O. Beers, a strong Scrantonian Republican, who made repeal of the reorganization act one of his prime issues.

Suffice it to say Mr. Beers won and turned up on Capitol Hill in January as a freshman senator from York County. It is important to understand Senator Beers' opposition to the reorganization act.

Senator Beers took to the floor of the upper chamber the other day to voice support of the Republican amendment under debate that among other things would set aside those school district reorganization plans (24) already approved by the Department of Public Instruction.

Up to this point Mr. Beers most certainly was on safe, sane and sound ground — voicing his support of legislation he felt should be enacted. However — and this is the critical point — Senator Beers seemingly became so carried away with his arguments that he began to criticize Dr. Charles H. Boehm, State Superintendent of Public Instruction for driving school districts to comply with the act to meet the January 1, 1963 deadline.

Mr. Beers in his senatorial wrath accused Dr. Boehm of leveling "heavy artillery at the heads" of school districts to comply with the act and the deadline, sharply denouncing the Superintendent of Public Instruction — for enforcing the law!

This column is not a defense of Dr. Boehm personally nor is it defense of the school reorganization act, but we do raise this seemingly preposterous question — preposterous because it should not need to be raised:

How can a legislator justifiably criticize a public official for carrying out the mandates of the Legislature itself?

The Legislature set up Act 561 — not the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The Legislature set up the deadlines in Act 561 — not the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The Legislature directed that school districts submit their reorganization plans — not the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The Legislature directed the State Council of Education and the Department of Public Instruction to see to it that the provisions of the act were carried out.

Had the Superintendent of Public Instruction not tried to enforce the legislative mandate, he would have been guilty of breach of oath of office!

Senator Beers' concern, from his standpoint, most certainly is understandable; his appalling attack on an official for carrying out the mandate of the law, is not!

Try and Stop Me

An enchanting but temperamental little girl of 8 received a phone call from a schoolmate the other evening. "Please call me back in ten minutes," she requested. "I'm in the middle of a tantrum."

Mrs. Dillenberg, on the veranda of the Comfort Arms, remarked, "I gave a beggar ten dollars today." Her companion inquired, "What did your husband have to say about that?" Mrs. Dillenberg admitted, "He said thank you."

Hinky and Mom Hughes are minus a good friend these days. The Stroudsburg couple, friends of every serviceman in Monroe County, recently lost their dog through illness.

There was a close bond between Hinky, Mom and the canine. One could always see Hinky walking the dog daily on Main St., Stroudsburg, and in the background hear Mom extol the merits of the small animal.

Both Mom and Hinky are looking for another pet to take the place of their favorite. However, as Hinky says, no other animal can ever occupy a spot in "our" lives like their last canine.

Folks up Tannersville, Scot Run and Mt. Pocono way are banding together to send get well cards to their former mailman, Fred Kreuge, of Henryville.

Fred has been laid up at Monroe County General Hospital after serving people of the area for 38 years.

Kreuge was discharged Monday from the hospital and is recuperating at his home at Henryville.

One typical letter of appreciation was written to this corner. It was penned by Mrs. Jennie Landoner, a resident of Tudor Tower, Brooklyn, N. Y., who is a frequent visitor to the Poconos.

Mrs. Landoner writes, "Fred always had a joke and a witty word for everyone. He came around in all kinds of weather with his cheery atmosphere."

"It would be nice if all his friends penned a get well note to the man who served so well for so long."

We second the motion.

Today the bloodmobile will be at the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church from 9:45 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. If you have a little spare time on your hands make good use of it and donate blood.

Our blood bank needs the support of the entire citizenry of the county. Hope you can make it today.

Interference In News Tried By White House

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington, February 13 — The Kennedy Administration is attempting to expand its publicly avowed policy of "managing the news" to include the legislative branch of the government — the U. S. Senate and House of Representatives.

This astonishing attempt was made by White House press secretary Pierre Salinger in connection with the highly explosive issue of Russia's massive military build-up in Cuba.

In effect, Salinger undertook to say which newsmen should attend a proposed secret briefing on this turbulent problem, and then capped that by announcing a meeting of a Senate committee whose chairman knew nothing about it.

Details of this extraordinary backstage affair are as follows: At 5:00 p.m., officials of the Senate and House press, radio-TV and periodical galleries were asked to be at Salinger's office at 6:00 p.m. for a "very important meeting." They would be told its nature then.

These officials are employees of Congress. The executive branch of the government has no authority of any kind over them. Similarly, these galleries function as agencies of Congress and are completely independent of the executive branch. But these gallery officials cooperate as much as possible with other government press authorities, and they responded to Salinger's request.

He informed them that a "background press briefing" would be held at noon in the White House the next day, and that the presentation would be made by either Central Intelligence Director John McConne or Lieutenant General Joseph Carroll, head of the Defense Intelligence Agency.

"To keep this conference from becoming too unwieldy," said Salinger, "I want you gentlemen to select a limited group of reporters who will attend. We can't open this conference to everyone accredited to your galleries."

"I have no authority to make such a choice among members of my gallery," objected one of the congressional officials. "That's entirely out of my province. If I notify one member of my gallery about this briefing, then I am bound to notify them all."

"There has got to be some limitation on how many can attend," argued Salinger.

"That's up to you and not us," retorted another congressional official. "I want no part of it."

Calling The Shots — Getting nowhere on this, Salinger then announced that the Senate Armed Services Subcommittee, studying the sinister Soviet military build-up in Cuba, would hold a meeting at 2:00 p.m. the next day to hear a report from CIA Director McConne.

This was startling news to the congressional press gallery officials, whose business it is to know about such matters in advance. They were surprised and made no bones about it.

"Senator Stennis (chairman of the committee) has said nothing about such a meeting," declared one official. "Are you sure about that?"

"I am," replied Salinger. "The meeting will be held just as I said."

When the officials returned to Capitol Hill and got in touch with Senator Stennis, he emphatically denied convening a hearing. All the other members of the committee also knew nothing about it.

In fact, they stated Stennis had informed them earlier that day no witnesses would be summoned "for at least two weeks."

The veteran Mississippi legislator sharply rebuked Salinger by phone.

"You had no right to announce that my committee is going to hold a hearing," said Stennis sternly. "This is most embarrassing to me as chairman and to the members of my committee, who didn't even know I was talking to McConne. I discussed with him appearing before our committee, but there was nothing final about the time and date."

"I was told it would be at 2:00 p.m. tomorrow," asserted Salinger. "They told me everything was all set."

Despite Stennis' protest, the White House press secretary was right.

Just as he said it would, the McConne hearing took place the next day — although at 3:30 instead of 2:00 p.m. The delay was due to the Senate voting on the protracted issue of limiting filibusters.

The secret White House briefing didn't come off for two reasons:

(1) McConne and General Carroll balked at making such a presentation to the press on the ground that was inadvisable because of their highly sensitive intelligence positions. (2) The two officials made it clear they could not make unqualified statements that all offensive missiles had been withdrawn from Cuba. They asserted "absolute assurance on these matters could only come from continuing and penetrating on-site inspections."

When McGeorge Bundy, powerful White House adviser on foreign affairs, learned of these stands, he directed that another type of briefing be held and by someone else.

That's how it came about that Defense Secretary McNamara and his special briefing official were selected to stage the two-hour widely televised presentation.

That performance was a re-enactment of one given earlier to the House Armed Services Committee. The White House also had planned to put it on before Senator Stennis' committee.

In the televised briefing, McNamara, in response to a question, stated what McConne and General Carroll would not. "We are convinced beyond reasonable doubt that all offensive missiles and bombers known to be in Cuba were withdrawn..."

McNamara requested and is getting copies of all the private testimony before the Stennis committee. The testimony of CIA Director McConne was delivered by messenger to McNamara. He is slated to appear before the committee, and will be exhaustively grilled. Committee members are carefully preparing for this.

Havana Flashes — U.S. Customs officials are carefully scrutinizing cigars and other tobacco products imported from abroad. They have been tipped off that Soviet bloc countries are selling cigars made from Cuban tobacco to European dealers who in turn are shipping them to the U.S....

While Algerian Premier Ben Bella is trying to wheedle food and other economic aid from the U.S., he is continuing to display his close ties with the Communist-dominated Castro regime by sending his Labor Minister Bachir Boumazza on a visit to Cuba. Apparently, Boumazza is to make an extended stay there because he is slated to be a stellar figure at a huge May Day celebration in Havana.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am a 58-year-old widow who was left well-off financially. I wrote and asked you if I should marry a charming, fine-looking gentleman who claimed he loved me. I explained that although he had no money I wanted to marry him. But if I were to die first, I wanted my children to inherit my money, not him or his children. You told me to have my lawyer draw up a prenuptial agreement (stating the terms) and to have my fiancé sign it. He is now arguing that if he were to die the best years of his life and I died first, he should be entitled to something. He says if HE had the money he wouldn't leave ME penniless. In other words, "What's good for the goose is good for the gander." What do you say?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: I say he might be a goose, but YOU don't have to be. Tell him to take a gander around at other widows and if he sees a better deal to grab it. And if he heads for the door, open it for him.

DEAR ABBY: I have a husband who said, "Honey, you work 7 days a week, so from now on I am going to give you one day a week off."

That day he lets me sleep late and he takes care of our two children. He brings me breakfast in bed. The coffee is weak and the toast is cold, but it is the most delicious meal of the week. Why don't more husbands act like that?

HAPPY WIFE

DEAR ABBY: How do you tell an 8-year-old blabbermouth that he is going to have a little brother (or sister)? He just loves babies and has told me several times he wished I would "get him" one. I want to tell him because I know it would make him happy but, knowing him, he will tell everybody about

Be Wary, Lady!

It I don't want him telling some of our elderly neighbors who think it isn't right for little children to know these things. Also, I know he will start asking a lot of questions. Most of all I am afraid he might not say it right. You know how children can say things. Please help me. I'm six months now.

WANTS TO TELL

DEAR WANTS: Tell him! And don't worry about what the neighbors (young or old or shy) will say. If he starts asking "a lot of questions," give him a lot of answers. The right ones.

Valentines With Crust; But Not Full Of Baloney

By Linda Pipher
Daily Record Home Economist

My sister, Jane, always sent me touching, sentimental Valentines as the card in the shape of a crust of bread. On the outside is "Valentine Greetings to someone with a lot of crust" and then when you open it, "and full of Baloney." It's complete with a piece of the inside "crust." On the back of the card is "But crumb and be my Valentine anyway!"

Bill isn't much better. If he remembers to send me one it's similar to this one I received from him: "Valentine... If you can't appreciate the beauty, the joy, the truth, the magnificence, of our relationship... Try to see the HUMOR in it!"

I'm just not the type to provoke hearts and flowers; I'm the kind who receives the crazy verses. In my teen years, I'd sigh as my friends with their peaches and cream complexions showed me frilly Valentines with sentimental verses and signed by their boyfriend pledging undying love. Then I'd look at mine: "Valentine greetings to my favorite dizzy blonde!"

Ah, well, they say it's the thought that counts; guess I just have to read between the lines. It's nice we set aside one day to associate the heart with love, and we start early for what's more exciting than the traditional valentine box in grade school? And you must not forget to make a special day in the kitchen and serve your favorite Valentines at least one reminder of the day.

Try this for your surprise dessert tomorrow night, and do prepare and serve with love:

Sweetheart Ice Cream Tarts
One-third shortening
1 cup sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
cup finely chopped maraschino cherries
1 to 2 tablespoons maraschino cherry juice
Vanilla ice cream
Whipped cream
Maraschino cherries, stem on
Sift flour with salt into a bowl. Add well-drained, chopped cherries. Cut in shortening, using a pastry blender or fork until the mixture is the consistency of corn meal and small peas. Sprinkle cherry juice, a little at a time, over different parts of the flour-shortening mixture. Toss together lightly with a fork. Use as little liquid as possible, just enough to make dough hold together. Place dough on waxed paper. Knead 3 times. Press gently into a ball. Let stand at room temperature for 15 to 20 minutes.

Lightly flour pastry cloth or board and stockinette covered rolling pin. Roll dough about 1/8 inch thick. Cut into circles. Place over outside of heart-shaped molds. Trim edges to fit mold. Prick with fork. Bake in a very hot oven (450) about 10 minutes, or until lightly browned. Cool. Fill baked shells with vanilla ice cream. Top each with whipped cream and a cherry. Yield: 4 tarts or one 8 inch pie.

If your children are having a Valentine party, or just for an extra special treat, serve this punch (sherbet can be omitted if desired):

Valentine Pink Lemonade Punch
Yield: 24 8 oz. servings
4 (6 oz.) cans frozen lemonade
Water, as directed on cans
1 quart bottle gingerale cream tarts with maraschino cherries as garnish and to pinken pastry.

this good salad. Or if you want to save the recipe for next month, replace the cherry hearts with lime-gelatin shamrocks.

Valentine Salad

1 12 ounce carton (1 1/2 cups) cream style cottage cheese
2 3 oz. packages cream cheese
1 teaspoon unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup seedless green grapes
1/2 cup broken pecans
2 tablespoons chopped chives or green onions
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Mash cheese together until well blended. Soften gelatin in cold water; dissolve over hot water; add salt. Stir gelatin mixture into cheese mixture. Add grapes, nuts, and chives. Fold in whipped cream. Turn into a 5 cup ring mold or individual heart molds. Chill at least 4 hours. Unmold. On top of salad, place cherry gelatin hearts (directions below). Around salad, garnish with green grapes and crisp salad greens.

Gelatin Hearts

Dissolve one package cherry, strawberry, or raspberry flavored gelatin in 2 cups hot water. Pour into long shallow baking dish or pan; gelatin should be a little less than 1/2 inch thick. Chill until firm. Cut out hearts with small heart shaped cookie cutter. Lift out gently with spatula and place on Valentine salad.

Child Can't Be Tone Deaf; He Just Needs Practice

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

New York (AP) — Your son's voice wavers away from the rest as the third grade sings "America."

Later, in a conference with you, his teacher explains, "He's tone deaf."

To him she says, "You're a listener."

Both statements are typical, says the director of choral music at Sarah Lawrence College and Dalton School in New York, and both statements are wrong.

According to Harold Aks, "It is virtually impossible to be tone deaf. Tone deafness would mean it is impossible to hear that any pitch is different from any other pitch."

"What usually happens is that a block takes place between the pitches a person hears and those he is able to reproduce from his throat."

Tone to Match

"But we have young children who do not reproduce sounds well being told not to sing. This is like telling a child who is nearsighted not to look or a child who hasn't learned reading yet not to read."

Aks believes in putting a child who can't carry a tune into the chorus, next to a child with a strong, good voice whose tones he can try to match.

Listening to the other children sing or listening to music appreciation records or lectures will never teach him to carry a tune, Aks says.

However, the choral director realizes that some schools will not permit a child who hits sour notes to sing with his class.

What Can Parents Do? The first parental inclination, Aks says, usually is to buy him a trumpet or a clarinet. But obviously, learning to play a band instrument, fun and beneficial though it may be, is not going to teach the child to sing.

However, a piano teacher should be able to teach him, Aks says. You should explain to the piano teacher that you want your child to learn to carry a tune. And you can suggest that teacher and pupil spend the first few months finding notes on the piano and singing those notes, then singing simple songs, before they begin the usual piano lessons.

Another possibility for a strictly treehouse tenor, Aks says is membership in a church choir. There he'll be singing familiar, simple hymns and probably be placed next to a strong singer.

Aks says one reason why some first grade children can't sing well is that they haven't been singing often at home and have a limited range.

"Training them is a matter of finding their range, and extending it with singing games. Sometimes you have to find the one note that is their range. But they can learn to sing."

Beats Player By Stroke

Palmer's Sub-Par 70 Wins Phoenix Open

By DECK STUART

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Arnold Palmer mused his way to a 2-under-par 70 Tuesday to win the rain-plagued $35,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament by one stroke over Gary Player.

It marked the third straight Phoenix victory for Palmer. He won in a playoff with Doug Sanders in 1961 and took last year's tournament by 12 strokes.

Player, who last week lost the Palm Springs tournament in a playoff with Jack Nicklaus, trailed Palmer by a stroke starting the final 18 holes over the soggy

6,679-yard par 74 Arizona Country Club course.

Misses 4-Footer He could have tied Palmer had he made a 4-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole. But after standing around nearly seven minutes for a putt by Don January to drop from the cup lip, Player missed his shot by 6 inches.

Player was disturbed by the wait and sat staring at the scoreboard as Palmer dropped a 2-foot putt for his par on 18 and victory. "January didn't have a right to wait seven minutes for that putt to drop," Player said. "It wasn't going to drop ever, not without hitting it. It was very nerve-racking, especially knowing I needed a bird to tie Arnie. Imagine, a 4-footer, and I missed it."

January, who finished with a 279, eventually had to nudge his ball into the 18th cup.

Penalty Ruling There was still a chance Player could have tied Palmer by a penalty ruling on the sixth green. But the Professional Golfers Association ruled that a bee, and not Palmer, had moved his ball while he was addressing it.

He got a par 4 on the hole. The victory, Palmer's second on the winter tour, was worth $5,300. Bridesmaid Player banked $3,400.

Third place money, $2,200, went to Jack Nicklaus for his 13-under-par 275. Fourth was Gardner Dickinson at 276, good for $1,900.

George Boutell, a sophomore at Arizona State University, captured amateur play for the third consecutive year with a 298. Billy Nicks of Los Angeles was second at 302.

Jack's Keeps Second Place In 'Y' Loop

JACK'S MARKET maintained their second-place grip in the Y.M.C.A. independent Basketball League by scoring their seventh win in 11 outings with a 75-55 triumph over R. C. Cramer.

Eisenhardt's trimmed Rudy's, 94-62. The Daily Record took the measure of Dee Jay Lanterman's, 68-59, in other games.

Jack's took a 21-17 first period lead and outscored Cramer's combine in each of the next two sessions to gain an easy victory. Lem Isom's 23 points led the winners.

Paul Matlock tallied 33 points for Eisenhardt's as they waltzed to 94-62 triumph over Rudy's. Eisenhardt's held a 36-22 halftime lead.

The Daily Record fell behind by 13-12 in the first quarter, and trailed by 41-33 at halftime but rallied in the final session to outscore the Lanterman club by 20-5 to gain the nod.

Denodado Wins In Handicap

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Denodado proved to be the best in a rousing scramble of 17 three-year-olds Tuesday as he won the $65,250 San Felipe Handicap at Santa Anita Park before an estimated 31,500 fans.

In what had the appearance of a small stampede, Jockey Rudy Campos got the long shot Denodado in first in a photo finish with Might and Main in the last major stakes leading to the big race for the division, the $100,000-added Santa Anita Derby March 2.

It appeared that A. G. Vanderbilt's Might and Main, ridden by Johnny Longden and racing near the rail, had the decision but Campos got Denodado in first from well outside.

With horses running all over the race track, Doolin Point was third.

The time for the 11-16 miles on a good track was 1:45 flat.

Texans' Move To K.C. Is Challenged

WASHINGTON (AP)—Warren M. Lockwood, Washington area contractor and businessman, challenged Tuesday the announcement that the Dallas Texans of the American Football League may move to Kansas City.

Lockwood said he had an agreement with the league that when Kansas City was considered for a franchise he would be given consideration. He said he had been negotiating with AFL owners since last June.

Lockwood's attorney sent a letter to Dallas Texans owner Lamar Hunt contending that the possible move of Dallas "clearly shows that this agreement has been breached."

"There's no doubt in my mind that we had a commitment," Lockwood said.

He said he was asking for an early meeting with Hunt and league officials to discuss the situation.

More Cities May Bid For Olympics

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. Olympic Committee re-opened the rivalry among American cities for the right to bid for the 1968 Olympic Games in a surprise move Tuesday, touching off a heated dispute between the two chief contenders—Detroit and Los Angeles.

The issue had apparently been resolved last Oct. 16 at a meeting in Chicago when Detroit was designated as the American choice to try for the games.

But after a long meeting here, the executive committee of the USOC's board of directors announced that all cities which had sought the right to bid for the 1968 games should be given a chance to make representations before the board in New York on March 18 and 19.

The move was taken on the grounds that the full board had not evaluated the presentations of the interested cities before Detroit was chosen. A special committee looked over the presentations and made recommendations to the board. In addition to Detroit and Los Angeles, the bidding cities were San Francisco, Philadelphia and Portland, Ore.

Cuba Represented In Pan-Am Games

By AMAURY MATTOZ

Associated Press Staff Writer

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Cuba is sending a huge squad to the Pan-American Games in Sao Paulo and special measures will be taken to prevent political demonstrations, an official of the Brazilian Olympic Committee said Tuesday.

Antonio Dos Reis Carneiro, secretary of the BOC, which has its headquarters here, said Fidel Castro's Caribbean republic is sending a team of 569 men and women to the games, April 20-May 5. This squad dwarfs the next largest, the 336 Argentina has entered. The United States is entering 231 the official said.

"Sport is sport," Reis Carneiro told The Associated Press. "Politics is something entirely different. We won't give any opportunity for any political manifestations be it pro-Cuba or anti-Cuba."

He said the committee would accept no claims from anti-Castro Cubans living outside Cuba.

Accept No Claims "We have adopted a firm position and we are going to defend it," said Reis Carneiro. "Nothing of politics. The Brazilian Olympic Committee recognizes the existence of a Cuban Olympic Committee and it is located in Havana. The Cuban Olympic Committee can send the delegation it wants as long as it respects the limit for each sports."

He said the committee also plans to ask the Sao Paulo police for increased patrols in the area of the Olympic village and at the playing fields to prevent any political demonstrations for or against the Cubans.

Pocono Mt. Grapplers Lose, 30-20

COACH ALLEN Shollenberger's Pocono Mountain wrestling team went down to a 30-20 defeat at the hands of Belvidere, N. J., Monday night.

The match was all tied entering the final two bouts when the Jersey grapplers scored a pair of falls to chalk up the verdict.

Pocono Mountain won only four of the 12 bouts, and all of them were by pins. They were chalked up by Dan Zilko (115), Bob Meckes (130), Bob Myrthel (141) and Greg Krummel (148).

Belvidere also won the junior varsity match, 22-13.

Tough Meet Seen For Bruce Kidd

NEW YORK (AP)—Leonard (Buddy) Edelen, the globe-trotting American distance star who is teaching in England, may provide Canada's sensational Bruce Kidd the stiff opposition he has been seeking in the Tossaint 2-mile Friday night.

The Tossaint is one of the features of the New York A.C.'s annual indoor games at Madison Square Garden.

Edelen, a former Big Ten champion now teaching in Essex, England, hasn't run in his native land since 1960 when he won the Tossaint in 8 minutes, 57.4 seconds.

Curvis TKO's Tony Smith

LONDON (AP)—Brian Curvis of Wales floored challenger Tony Smith of England for three counts of nine and retained his British welterweight title on a technical knockout in the 10th round of a scheduled 15-rounder Tuesday night.

Curvis weighed 145 pounds, Smith 144.

Stroud Union Drops 8th In Row, 82-60

PALMERTON — Stroud Union's Mountaineers went down to their eighth successive loss both ripping the cords for 25 apiece. Dick Noll contributed 11 to the winners' cause.

Nevil Tops S-U Ed Nevil proved the scoring pace-setter for the Mountaineers of Coach Bob Wert, notching 21 points on nine field goals and three foul flips. Dave Pierson hit for 16 and Skippy Kintz added 10.

The Panthers zipped in front of the visitors by a 26-11 count at the end of the first period, but the Mounties found the range better in the second session as they outscored the Palmerton club, 16-15, to trail at halftime by 41-27.

Stroud Union sliced that margin to nine points in the third stanza when the Mounties outpointed the homesters by an 18-13 margin. But Palmerton ripped the nets for 28 points in the final canto while holding Stroud Union to 15 to sew up the verdict.

Palmerton also gained the nod in the preliminary JV tilt by a 67-37 count.

Regulate Boating Under New Board

HARRISBURG, Feb. 11 (AP)—Recreational boating would be regulated under the terms of legislation introduced in the House on Monday.

The bill (H-255) would create a nine-member boating board consisting of three Cabinet officers and six persons active in recreational boating affairs named by the Governor.

Major provisions of the proposal would require: —All motorboats to be assigned a number either by the State or under Federal regulations. —A schedule of registration fees ranging from $2 for boats without motors to $5 for boats 40 feet and over.

—All boats operating at night to have running lights, the number and type of which would depend on size of the boat.

The proposal would also write into law provisions for safe handling of boats. Among other things it would ban operation of boats by an intoxicated person and prevent negligent operation by water skiers and aquaplaners.

The board would have authority to write rules and regulations governing boating. Sponsors of the bill were Reps. J. Russell Eshback (R., Pike); Edwin G. Holl (R., Montgomery); Dominick E. Cioffi, (D., Lawrence) and Julian Polaski (D., Erie).

Mike Huddock and Eric Honzo tallied 50 points between them, both ripping the cords for 25 apiece. Dick Noll contributed 11 to the winners' cause.

Official Nationwide Consumer Testing Institute Report:

PLYMOUTH WINS PERFORMANCE TEST. PLYMOUTH WINS GAS ECONOMY TEST.

It happened in the second big meeting of Ford Galaxie "500", Chevrolet Impala and Plymouth Fury at Riverside, Cal.—in a "Showdown" Plymouth asked for. The cars were all V-8s, comparably equipped. And Nationwide Consumer Testing Institute was there to conduct the competition and see to it that its strict rules were followed. When it was over, Plymouth had victories in almost every performance test, plus victory in the all-important economy run. Plymouth for '63 also has the only 5-year/50,000-mile warranty* in the tough Plymouth-Ford-Chevrolet league. See your dealer. Plymouth's on the move.
